

November 9, 2018

Refugee Health Round-up

Lead: Invisible danger, visible change in the community

Lead – the heavy metal found in older homes and paint as well as in the environment – is hard to see, but very toxic. Public Health Seattle & King county is working to raise the visibility of the dangerous effects of lead, especially on children’s brain development and the work that it takes to reduce exposure to it in our community...Read more »

Webinar: It Takes a Village: Community Providers as Vital Partners with Public Health in the Management of ICE Detainees with Suspected TB Disease

This one hour free webinar will discuss best practices for TB diagnosis and management for ICE detainees, review the role of public health and community partners, and discuss how continuity of care is coordinated for patients who are released. The webinar will be held on December 4, 2018 at 11:00 am. Please register here (deadline is November 26)

Please send a request to Refugee Health Program if you want to receive the Weekly Round-up or to include events/news.

Job Announcement: Resettlement Case Manager

Jewish Family Service (JFS) is currently seeking a Resettlement Case Manager in their Refugee Immigrant Services program. This full-time (37.5 hours/week) position provides resettlement services to refugees who are new to the US. The position is based in the Kent JFS office, but work is primarily carried out in locations throughout the Puget Sound, such as other JFS sites, clients’ homes and other locations in the community. Interested candidates, please submit your resume and cover letter to resumes@jfsseattle.org.